A rousing pep meeting held at the school yesterday afternoon showed the great enthusiasm which has been worked up over the Pineville-Middlesboro football game tomorrow. Coach Porter and Supt. Bradner spoke and the students sang school songs and practiced yells. Another meeting will be held this afternoon. The lineup has not been given out yet but the coach expects a winning team and the boys are more confident than they have ever been that they will win.

All attending the Middlesboro-Pineville football game which will be staged at the local football park tomorrow afternoon are requested to pin their tickets on the label of their coats thereby evidencing the fact that they have paid for an admission.

Pin Tickets on Lapel.
This manner of disposing of the ticket is made necessary by reason of the fact that the athletic field is not adequately protected by a fence and it would be impossible to collect the tickets at the entrance in the regular manner.

"I am sure that the loyal citizens of the town will cooperate with us in this," said Supt. Bradner, "even to the pinning on of the tickets."

The football park has two reserved sections, one for the Middlesboro spectators and the other for the use of Pinevillians. Each section has 24 boxes of six seats each. Tickets for these have been selling rapidly, according to the superintendent, and will doubtless all be sold before the beginning of the game.

The playing field has been fenced in with wire and those having general admission tickets will stand just outside the wire fence. Those using the boxes will remain in their seats while the game is in progress. Individual seat tickets are now on sale for the boxes at $1.50 each.

Following is a table of information regarding the Middlesboro and Pineville football squads:

DISABLED SOLDIERS
TO GET ATTENTION
FROM GOVERNMENT

State Secretary Here Yesterday, Investigates Ten Cases, Will Return Later—Urges Public to Support Red Cross.

12,000 MEN IN KENTUCKY
DESERVE FEDERAL AID

The cases of ten disabled soldiers in Middlesboro will receive attention from the government and financial aid given because of the visit yesterday of James D. Sory, secretary of the Kentucky Disabled Ex-Servicemen's Board. Sory succeeds Henry J. Stiles.

Because of the lack of publicity many of the disabled soldiers in this community did not know of Mr. Sory's visit and did not file their cases yesterday. Mr. Sory will return again soon and invites all disabled soldiers or their friends to make application through the Kentucky Board.

One case investigated yesterday brought out the fact that a local disabled soldier had been allowed 10 percent by the government but had never received his compensation. About $350 is due him now besides his regular monthly payment.

Sory left for Harlan this morning to investigate cases of disabled soldiers in Harlan county.

There are 12,000 disabled soldiers in Kentucky who should be reached by some organization, Mr. Sory says. Of this number only about 4,500 have been entered with their complaints on the files of the Kentucky Ex-Servicemen's Board.

The disbursing of the Red Cross work in many parts of the state is making it more and more difficult to reach the men who deserve aid from the government, he says. People are thinking that the war is over inspite of the fact that they have made no reparation to the men who made great sacrifices for their country. When the membership Red Cross roll call is made they fail to respond, Mr. Sory says.

Mental cases receive little or no attention until it is too late, Sory says. Men who might be saved are not heard of until they are in the critical stage.

Sory suggested that now at the Thanksgiving season when there should be a real thanksgiving would be a good time for people to try to get in touch with men they know need help and explain to them the work of the board at Frankfort.

200 WOMEN SEE
PURE FOOD SHOW

Demonstration Yesterday at Chambers
Under Auspices of Woman's Club.

Two hundred women attended the pure food demonstration at Chambers Grocery yesterday afternoon. Fifty-two club women were present. The demonstration was under the auspices of the Home Economics section of the Woman's Club and was very successful.

The collection consisted of thirty quart jars of fruit, 36 glasses of jelly and fourteen packages of other things including crackers and cookies. Mrs. Helen Forrester asks that the women who want to give something for the orphan children's Thanksgiving call her.

Mrs. Forrester says that the club is very grateful to Mr. Chambers for the use of his store for the demonstration and highly recommends his store as one that sells only food and meat of best quality and purity.

The following concerns put on demonstrations, Armour and Co., National Biscuit Co., Cumberland Club Products Co., the Red Cross, and Kentucky Utilities and Ethel Browns candy.

The National Biscuit Company had the west display window of Chambers Grocery most attractively arranged with cookies and crackers of all kinds. The east display window was arranged with fruits and nuts displayed in pretty baskets.

The Cumberland Club Products company served hot coffee and biscuits baked in a three unit (R63) electric Hotpoint Hughes range. W. C. Stair, manager of the Kentucky Utilities Co., says there are now thirty ranges in use by Middlesboro citizens.

Material for the Red Cross roll call drive tomorrow was given out to the women who have different sections of the town to cover.

A nice collection of fruit and jelly and preserves was donated by the women for the children of the Grace Nettleton home.

No Quorum Present, Council Adjourns

Only six aldermen were present at the meeting of the city council last night, and as seven is necessary for a quorum, no business was taken up. Mayor Keeney adjourned the meeting at 7:05 o'clock, thanking the six who had braved the inclemency of the weather to be present.

POLICEMAN AND
BANDIT KILLED

Dead Death When Police Stop Four
In Stolen Car in Columbus,
Ohio.

By Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28.—Patrolman Grannison Koehler and an unidentified bandit were killed in the latest here today as the outcome of an attempt of four men in what believed to be a stolen car from Cleveland last night. Koehler and Corporal Roscoe Friddle stopped the machine to search the men and found two revolvers. While awaiting the arrival of a patrol wagon one bandit seized a revolver which was apparently concealed in the car and began shooting. Koehler was hit by four bullets and dropped to the street dead. As the car sped away Friddle opened fire, although wounded in the jaw. A little later the automobile was found with a dead bandit in the rear seat.

CALL ON TODAY

Women Canvass Town For Membership—Middlesboro Budget Is $4000.

The annual Red Cross Roll Call drive started this morning under auspices of the Woman's Club. It will be finished by tomorrow evening if possible, Mrs. J. T. Alderson says. This will be in keeping with the plan to finish all roll call drives by Thanksgiving.

The members of the Woman's Club have been given sections of the town to cover for the drive. Mrs. Alderson says she would like to impress the importance of the Roll call drive on the people of Middlesboro. She urges that not only membership fees be paid but also subscriptions be made for the furthering of the work.

A final report of the Red Cross drive in Middlesboro will be made in the Daily News this week.

The budget this year is $4000 for local and national work. The great importance of the Red Cross to Middlesboro, to the United States and to the world should make it impossible for any one to refuse subscription to it.

REMEMBER POOR
ON THANKSGIVING

Girl Scouts Give Baskets Through Salvation Army—Churches To Take Collections.

The poor of the city will be remembered on Thanksgiving Day. Various churches, charitable organizations and the general public will cooperate in making it a day that will be remembered by the indigent people of Middlesboro.

Perhaps the most noteworthy example of charity is that of the Red Rose Troop, Girl Scouts, who, under the direction of Mrs. W. C. Stair, will give baskets of food to the Salvation Army which will distribute it to those most in need. Each of the four patrols will give one half-bushel basket containing rice, potatoes, canned foods, coffee, sugar and other edibles. These will be delivered to the Salvation Army headquarters on Wednesday afternoon and will be distributed to the needy families on Thursday morning.

Rev. A. B. Reeves, pastor of the Christian church, reports that a collection for charity will be made at the Thursday morning service. The money obtained will be divided equally between the Red Cross and the Salvation Army which organizations will distribute it among those in need of the necessities of life.

Other churches of the city have no definite plans for charity yet but report that doubtless some provision will be made for the cause at the Wednesday night or the Thursday morning service.

The Salvation Army will make a drive for the purpose of obtaining funds with which to make a happy Christmas for the worthy poor of Middlesboro, and they have no definite plans for Thanksgiving other than the distribution of the food and money which organizations and individuals commit to their care.

New Reporter for Daily News.
Bayard Yaden of Knoxville has taken a position with the Middlesboro Daily News as reporter and will be on the job in that capacity for the future. The Daily News' increasing circulation has given it a wider group of readers to serve and this addition to the staff will make it possible to get a greater variety of news. Mr. Yaden was formerly with the Knoxville Sentinel.

Prepares to Silence Critics Who Call Him Alarmist and Discount German Government's Denial of His Claims.

VIOLATIONS DISCOVERED BY INTERNATIONAL COMMISSION

By Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Georges Clemenceau, war-time French premier, today is preparing a broadside which he hopes will silence critics who accuse him of being an alarmist in declaring that Germany is preparing for a new war and to discount the German government's denial of his claims. He declares he is listing from official documents "fifty flagrant violations of Germany of the peace treaty in the matter of war preparations." He said they were discovered by the International Commission. A few of the most flagrant will find their way into his address here this afternoon.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—New York and New Jersey are flooded with liquors from the Bahamas, Scotland and England, according to Frank Hale, investigator for the prohibition department. He declared a steamship was cleared from Scotland last week with 24,000 cases of whiskey, bound for the "whiskey armada" camping "ground" four miles off the American coast. He asserted that a New York syndicate is importing liquor supply from Scotland because the stuff from the Bahamas is being mixed with grain alcohol and coloring fluids. He said more than one hundred vessels are engaged in transporting contraband liquor in this country and that millions change hands in bootleg deals each week.

A number of prominent Pineville men have expressed themselves to Middlesboro men during the past few days as strongly disapproving the action of the football coaches Saturday in watching Middlesboro's secret practice. They ask that Middlesboro not take this as Pineville's general attitude and say they desire only the friendliest rivalry between Middlesboro and Pineville. Middlesboro men, too, say they are sure Pineville as a community does not sanction such methods.

It is stated in official circles that a protest of Great Britain had gone unheeded that the not be executed. This would result in the immediate withdrawal of the British minister in Athens.

CHURCHES OBSERVE
THIS THANKSGIVING

All But Two Have Services Thursday—Others Wednesday Night.

Meetings.
Four Middlesboro churches will have Thanksgiving services Thursday morning and the others will observe the occasion with prayer and fitting services Wednesday evening. Because it is the one day in the year which this nation sets aside to remember that it is not entirely sufficient to itself and that there is a higher power responsible for the manifold blessings this nation enjoys, it is particularly fitting that the churches should observe Thanksgiving Day.

The Christian Church will hold its services at 10:45 o'clock Thursday morning at which time the Rev. A. B. Reeves will preach and special music will be given. A thank offering will be taken which will be divided between Red Cross and Salvation Army.

St. Mary's Episcopal Church will have prayer services at 10:29 o'clock Thursday morning, the Rev. R. D. Riddwin, rector, presiding.

St. Julian's Catholic Church will hold its services at 7:30 o'clock Thursday morning.

The Christian Science Society will observe Thanksgiving with special services at 11 o'clock Thursday morning.

The service of the Presbyterian Church will be held at 7:30 Wednesday evening in the place of regular prayer meeting. Dr. J. A. Gray will preach on "The Thankful Heart" and there will be special music.

The offering will be taken for Grace Nettleton Home.

The M. E. Church, South, will have Thanksgiving service Wednesday night at 7:30 as a part of the revival series. The Rev. W. L. Clark, evangelist, will preach and the Rev. and Mrs. R. A. Long will have charge of the music as usual.

STABILIZE MONEY OR FACE FASCISTI IN U. S., WARNING

Yale Economics Professor Shows Gravity of Condition Here As Mirrored In Recent Election Vote.

DISCONTENT WITH SITUATION CAUSES POLITICAL UNREST

By Irving Fisher, Professor of Political Economy, Yale University.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 28.—A recent circular sent to bankers and employers expresses deep anxiety over the Fascisti victory in Italy and the gains of the Labor party in England and elsewhere. It predicts domination of labor will soon appear more explicitly in America and will threaten the existing order.

I believe that bankers and employers, not to say the rest of us, have cause for anxiety. But what the circular overlooks is that, as Roosevelt so often warned us, the only real escape from the danger of an overturn lies in redressing real grievances.

What is needed is to interpret the recent labor unrest as symptoms of social diseases needing to be cured.

There are several such social diseases which I could name, and probably several others which would be revealed by a searching investigation. But here I shall point out only one—probably by far the most important. This is the unstable money growing out of the war.

Unstable Money—Source of Evil. But what has unstable money to do with recent labor unrest? We do not remember seeing any mention of it in the newspapers. Yet to find it we do not have to seek for it. We can trace our way back in three simple steps from the recent political demonstration of labor discontent to unstable money as a prime cause.

The first step brings us to unemployment as the grievance which, more than any other, caused labor to make its recent political commotion. The English labor pre-election manifesto said, among other things:

"Unemployment and low wages, being caused largely by the policy of the Liberal and Unionist government have brought distress to the bulk of the working people."

Since the election in which labor came off second best, the unemployed have been demanding a hearing with Bonar Law.

Unrest Is Mirrored In Vote.

In other words, labor in England held the Lloyd George government responsible for the vast unemployment during the last two years and will hold the Bonar Law government responsible for putting an end to unemployment.

The opportunity to work is likewise the demand of the Fascisti in Italy. In America also the backswing of the last election is largely because of the depression of trade and unemployment.

Next we trace back this depression of trade and unemployment, whether in America, England or Italy, or elsewhere to the fall of prices in 1920 and 1921. Always and inevitably a great fall of prices kills enterprise, closes factories, discourages farmers and throws men out of work.

Going still further back, we may trace the fall of prices to the deflation of credit and money beginning early in 1920. As Professor Cassel of Sweden, shows so clearly in his Money and Foreign Exchange After 1914, and just published, and as every other economist knows so well, this restriction of credit which bankers in so many countries began in 1920 was the main reason for the fall of prices which bankrupted thousands of farmers and business men and made millions of workers idle.

Causes Wreck in Vicious Circle.

And there you have it! The chain of causes: Deflation, fall of prices, unemployment, producing political vindictiveness.

Whenever deflation or inflation occurs somebody's toes are trod on and discontent and unrest result. First we complain over the high cost of living and then over the depression of trade.

If those now so anxious over labor unrest, for fear their own pocket-books will be injured, once realized that there are those real grievances from inflation and deflation which are what unstable money means, they are so anxious else than wring their hands in bewildered anxiety.

They would take measures to prevent inflation and deflation—that is, to stabilize the purchasing power of money. Incidentally this would not only prevent the real grievances mentioned but would help their own pocket-books.

Instability Causes Bolshevism

As stated at the outset, of course, there are other grievances. But it is doubtful if any are so important as those produced by inflation and deflation. Lord D'Abernon, now British ambassador to Germany and one of the masters of this subject, once said that he believed 90 per cent of the world's bolshevism came from unstable money. This is a higher percentage than I would ascribe, but I believe over 50 per cent would be a conservative estimate.

And the worst of it is that neither labor nor capital has yet clearly seen the situation. Labor is therefore on the rampage and is quite likely to hang the wrong man to the lamp-post while capital does nothing except to demand that nothing be done. When both sides demand and obtain stable money over half their difficulties will disappear.

Let All Rejoice
Let us give thanks—not for those gifts alone
Of field and garden, tree and fruit-ful vine,
But for those gifts by which our lives have grown
More nearly like the Infinite design.

Let us give thanks, from fervent hearts for love;
Pure love toward God, unselfish love toward man;
For tenderness, compassion—gifts above
What human thought could wish to have, or plan.

Let us give thanks for the great gift of prayer
By which we reach the consciousness of peace,
And realize the constant help and care
Of Love divine, that cannot lapse nor cease.

Let us give thanks for true and loyal friends,
For home and family ties; for work, for play;
For beauty, and the grace that laughter lends
To toil or trial, on our daily way.

Let us give thanks that in this troubled hour,
With skies bedimmed by doubt, by hate, by fear,
We can rejoice that Good alone has power,
Can prove it true, and thus win heaven here.

JOY FOR THE HARDINGS

President and Mrs. Harding are sure to have a real old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinner. The members of the Harding Girls' Club of a Chicago packing firm, are going to send them Supreme III, the 41-pound Illinois bronze turkey, shown above in company with Miss Susan Crittenden, one of the members.

TURKEYS SELL AT 55 CENTS POUND

Other Supplies For Thanksgiving Dinner Plentiful in Middlesboro This Year.

With the approach of Thanksgiving day, the holiday dear to the heart of all epicures, local grocers are beginning to stock up on turkeys. A large supply is already on the local markets with the prospect of getting other shipments within a few days.

Those who paid 60 cents per pound last Thanksgiving for specimens of the royal bird will be gratified to know that the price is five cents per pound cheaper this year. The present quotation is 45 cents on foot and 55 cents dressed. It is not likely that the price will advance before Thursday.

Local dealers say that there was an unusually large number of the birds raised this year in the poultry sections of Tennessee and Virginia. Very few have been grown in South-eastern Kentucky. Tazewell, Tenn., is said to be about the nearest big market for this and other kinds of poultry.

Of course the Thanksgiving Day menu would not be complete without cranberries, and, as there is a goodly supply of this dainty on the local markets, there is no reason to expect an absence of it on the festive board of the popular holiday. They are now retailing at from 20 to 25 cents per quart which is about the average price.

Oysters, another favorite dish and one worthy of a place beside the turkey on the Thanksgiving table, have increased in price. They are now retailing at from 40 to 50 cents per pint, while the price last year was ten cents cheaper.

If we decide that a purchase of turkey would alter the family purse beyond all recognition, chickens and duck are plentiful, and what they lack in taste in compensating with their more aristocratic friend, the turkey, the imagination of the diner can supply. They are now selling for 35 cents on foot and 50 cents dressed. While there is not an over supply this year, it is not thought that a real shortage will exist.

Local meat markets have a choice selection that would not be out of place on the Thanksgiving table and the price is no higher than usual. Grocers all seem to have a large stock of vegetables, such as celery, lettuce

BURKE'S JEWELRY

GOWNS FOR THE PLUMP

Incorrect Correct

The woman of too rounded outline should learn that nothing so effectively conceals her defects as simple, straight lines. Notice the difference in effect in the models above: The one emphasizes the thickness about the waist and hips that might easily be hidden, while the other actually transforms it into lines of grace and beauty. The trimmed hat, too, makes the wearer's face too broad for beauty, while the closer turban frames it most effectively.

Day of Joy

Thanksgiving day! Thanksgiving day! The plumes of glory are gay,
Cranberry sauce is glowing red,
The sun shines blessing on your head.
And from the oven comes a whiff
That makes each little licker sniff,
Give me some white meat, if you please
I'm busier than honey bees!

Thanksgiving day! Thanksgiving day! It's fatter than the birds o' May.
Stewed onions, sweet potatoes, plump,
A turkey perched on every stump,
When folks on farms decide to eat,
Believe me, it's a merry treat!
Give me a drum-stick—gravy, too,
And ma, I think the health o' you!

Strike!

HUNTERS PLAN FOR SPORTIVE TIME ON THANKSGIVING DAY

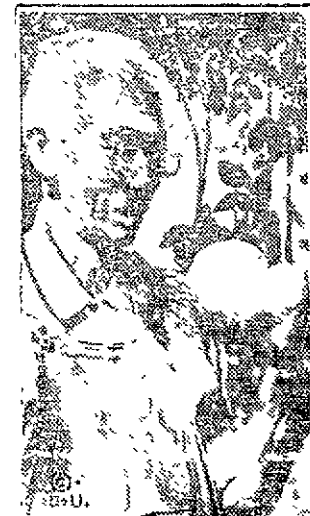

Brier Rabbit will have a hard time around here on Thanksgiving Day, if we may judge by the large number of shotguns and the quantities of ammunition that have been sold by local hardware firms.

The game laws of Virginia now permit the hunting of birds and a large number of local sport-loving citizens are preparing for a raid on them on the holiday.

Hunting restrictions have long been removed by law in this state and in Tennessee and it is expected that war will be waged on the elusive bunny on November 30. The territory lying around Middlesboro is said to be excellent hunting grounds and there is no doubt that the hunters are good marksmen.

As all forms of work will cease on the holiday, all men can avail themselves of a day of unalloyed pleasure, if exploring the brier fields of our snow-clad hills can be designated as such.

REMEMBER THE NEEDY.

Make Thanksgiving more than a mere day of feasting and frolic.

There are many families in need of the kindly helping hand of a good neighbor.

Be certain, when you sit down to your own well-laden table that you have made the day one of real Thanksgiving for somebody less fortunate.

The best kind of thanks is thanks offered for opportunity to do a good deed.
